RAD REPETITION

Today's theme is all about repetition. Repetition is when something happens over and over again. Repetition happens in patterns, songs, poems, numbers, and so much more! Sometimes it is obvious when things repeat. Like in patterns. Other times it is less obvious. Like in the things we do. Repetition is important because it helps us learn new things! Doing things over and over again helps us do them easier!

Today's fun includes an exercise on patterns, an amazing activity on alliterations, and a homonym challenge!

Playing with Patterns

Patterns have lots of repetition. Patterns happen when shapes and colors repeat. Sometimes they are simple. Other times they are complicated. Look at the patterns below. Complete each pattern by filling in the correct shape. Color in the shapes to keep the pattern going!

Awesome Alliterations

Alliterations are awesome! Alliterations are sentences with words with the same beginning sounds. Alliterations are fun to make, write, and say! Look at the examples below and create your own alliterations.

Examples

Peter Piper picked a peck of pickled peppers.

She sells seashells by the seashore

Notice how each word begins with the same sound as the first? That's alliteration!

This & That

Did you know there are words that have more than one definition? These words are called, "homonyms." Homonyms are words that are spelled the same but mean different things. Draw a line from each picture to its matching word. Then write a sentence using both definitions of the homonym!

Boredom Busters Bitez is an extension of our previous publication, Boredom Busters. Instead of one large publication, we will release three different Boredom Buster activities. Each issue is a different theme!
